Reliable, personalized end-user it support

The challenge

If you're like most organizations, your IT department has too much on its plate. Not only is IT responsible for making strategic technology decisions to support the business, but also has to manage end-user technical support for employees. Providing helpful, efficient support (sometimes 24/7) is a challenge. Dealing with IT staff turnover, vacations, illness and ensuring you have qualified team members, just adds to the complexity.

Helping you do more

Fully Managed has decades of experience helping companies across North America support their end users. Our Enterprise Service Desk solutions give you the ability to hand off some or all front-line technical support. Our trained experts can handle all technical support requests or extend the capabilities of your in-house team. Our ITIL-based, SLA-driven services are customizable to meet your unique needs. On your behalf we handle the day-to-day support issues, so you can focus on more strategic technology tasks.

Meeting your needs

Our Service Desk solutions are tailored to meet your specific requirements:

Service level required

Hours of service required: Business hours, after hours, 24x7, seasonal/cyclical
